Early Friday morning the street cars passing Union Station were crowded with out going visitors, anxious to get away from the scene of the tamest show ever put up by a national political party.

Stolldly they took their seats or hung on the straps. There was no enthusiasm, no shouting, no loud talking even. Nearly every face wore a jaded expression. LEXINGTON, Ky., June 19.—The Tent? LEXINGTON, Ky., June 19.—The Tenth Congressional District Democratic Convention at Beattyville nominated T. Y. Fitzpatrick of Floyd County for Congress at 3 o'clock this morning. There was a hot contest between the winner and the present Congressman, Judge Beckner of Winchester, who, until recently, was a sound money man. His change was made to silver so late that the original silver men combined against him in the convention. The convention adopted the free silver platform of the State Convention.

THE SILVER MEN'S ADDRESS.

FRIDAY EVENING-ST, LOUIS-JUNE 19, 1896,-TEN PAGES.

Teller Nominated for President.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES:-

Obeying the call of duty, and justified by the common citizenship of this Republic, we address this nunication to the people and the forthcoming conventions of the United States. In doing so we claim no authority or right other than that which belongs to every man to express personal conviction; but we respectfully solicit the co-operation of all who believe that the time has come for a return to a simpler and more direct method of naming men for national service than has obtained in recent years.

Political party organization is necessary because without it the individual voter is dumb; but the party is only the means, not the end; it is the voice and not the sense. As the world advances in this wonderful epoch of intellectual development and physical improvement there is a constant requirement for better things. The individual feels that requirement and heeds it, or he fails in life's endeavor. obey the same law. It follows, therefore, that the moment a party shall choose to stand still or retrogress it is no longer efficient to achieve the end to which the people are necessarily destined. There is no sanctity in mere party name; and the mark of decay is set on individual organization and coerces man from the truth for the sake of expediency and establishes insincere submission to partisan rule for the sake of power.

Recognizing the value and the splendid achievements of political parties in this country, as elsewhere, we are yet constrained to believe that for more than twenty years no one of them has been entirely sufficient for the needs of the people. The great trend to better things, resting in the heart and purpose of all men, has been stayed during the latter part of this generation by the failure of parties to express in their achievements the highest hope and aspiration of the mass of the people who constitute the parties. And there has been growing in this country—swelling with each requirence of national elections—a great mass of independent thinkers and voters, which, failing within itself to control, has gravitated between the two great parties. Since 1872 (excepting possibly the election of 1876) the pendulum has swung from side to side with each four years. In 1872 the Republican party elected the President; in 1876 Democracy claimed the election; in 1880 the Republican party elected; in 1884 the Democrats elected; in 1888 the Republicans elected; in 1892 the Democrats elected; in 1896 (until within a few weeks) it has been conceded that the Republicans would elect. What has been the cause of this mighty oscillation of a mass which this year has probaably obtained controlling proportions? Every man can answer to himself. If he has been an observer, if he has had interests that were affected, if he has felt a hope to see greater justice done and has seen that hope blasted, he knows that the general dissatisfaction has arisen from the fact that party promises made were broken to the people by party performance; he knows that so soon as the election was over and successful candidates installed they became the servitors of the party and the advocates of a narrow and non-progressive policy within which alone there seemed to be an assurance of selfish safety and partisan approval. During all this period we have lacked a great constructive administration. No new social truth has been put forward in an effective way. While in all the departments of physical life there have been developments and achievements of ease and comfort to the favored of mankind; in the still greater and more important domain of social reform we have stood still or retrogressed.

It is not that the people have not telt the stirrings of determination, that this inaction has endured;

but because of the rule of party which has largely controlled men in and out of office. It has become a source of reproach to any man that he should dare to renounce allegiance to organization. Men have been expected to submit their views to the dictation of conventions, although it is common knowledge that conventions have been swayed to views and declarations not the most approved by the mass of the people nor progressive for their welfare.

We do not arrogate to ourselves one iota more of intelligence, patriotism or courage than is possessed by any of our fellow-citizens. But we feel that the time has come for the performance of a duty to the country; and for our part, though we shall stand alone, we will make an endeavor in the direction of that duty. Parties may outlive their usefulness; the truth never becomes obsolete. Every generation of freemen has the right to affirm the truths of past knowledge and present acquirement; and if the enforcement of these truths shall make necessary a departure from party organization, the people have this right and will exercise it until old parties shall return to the truth or new parties shall be created to effect it into law.

If the voices which have sounded to us from every State in this Union are an indication of the real feeling, this year is the appointed time for the people to assert themselves, through such medium as may give best promise of the achievements of justice. But whether we are mistaken or not concerning the general sentiment in the United States, we have not mistaken our own duty in withdrawing from the Republican convention, feeling that it is better to be right and with the minority in apparent defeat than to be wrong with the majority in apparent triumph.

We hold that in the great work of social evolution in this country monetary reform stands as the first requisite. No policy, however promising of good results, can take its place. Continuation during the next four years upon the present financial system will bring down upon the American people that cloud of impending evil, to avert which should be the first thought of statesmen and the first prayer of patriots. Our very institutions are at stake. To-day with the rapidly increasing population, with widely swelling demands, the basis of our money is relatively contracting; and the people are passing into a servitude all the more dangerous because it is not physically apparent. The nation itself, as to other nations, is losing the sturdy courage which could make it defiant in the face of injustice and international wrong. From the farmer and the tradesman to the Government there is apparent the same shrinking from giving offense, lest the vengeance of some offended financial power shall descend. The business man submits some portion of his judgment and his will, and the nation submits some portion of its international right lest some mighty foreign creditor shall make destructive demands. Where will all this end if the people shall decline to assert themselves? Where will it end if the older parties in their determination to maintain themselves in power for power's sake alone shall refuse to recognize the right and the hope of humanity?

This country cannot much longer exist free and independent against all the rest of the world, nor can its people much longer be free in the noblest sense of the term if the United States, a debtor nation, shall follow a policy dictated by creditor nations. We produce all of the necessaries of life. Other nations consume our product. In the race for existence it is a constant struggle between producer and consumer. Our present system of money deliberately submits to the desire and the profit of creditor nations, leaving us in the mass, and as individuals, a prey to the money gathering and the deadly cheapening of the Old World. As the debt to creditors abroad increases on the masses of the nation, the price of human production on the farm and in the workshop is decreased with appalling rapidity, exacting more and more toil from our citizens to meet the given demand, and holding over their heads a threat of the day when confiscation to meet their obligations will leave them hare and defenseless. The only remedy is to stop falling prices—the deadliest curse of national life. Prices never will cease falling under the single gold standard.

The restoration of bimetallism by this country will double the basis of our money system. In time it will double the stock of primary money of the world-will stop falling prices and steadily elevate them. until they will regain their normal relation to the volume of debts and credits in the world. Bimetallism will help to bring about the great hope of every social reformer, every believer in the advancement of the race who realizes that the instability of prices has been the deadly foe of our toilers and the servant of the foreign interest gatherer. Bimetallism will help to bring the time when a certain expenditure of human toil will produce a certain financial result. Who among the great masses of our people in the United States but feels that his lot would be made better, his aspiration take new wings, if he could know in the performance of his labor what would be the price of his product?

ical conventions yet to be held in this year 1896? Is not this so great an end that all who believe in the possibility of attaining it by the means proposed can yield something of their partisanship both in conventions and at the polls? It is in the hope that the masses and the remaining conventions will have the courage and the generosity to unite for this purpose that we have dared to offer our views to the people of the United States; and because in the past there has lacked a rallying point for the masses, who hold as we do to this belief, we venture an act, trusting that it will be received in the same spirit of conciliation, concession and hope with which we put it forth.

hope with which we put it forth.

We have endeavored in a plain way to set the matter before the eyes of our fellow-citizens. We invoke the union of all men and all parties who believe that the time has come for the triumph of justice. It is an hour when the people may speak for themselves as individuals and through conventions yet to be held. It is the right of every citizen to indicate his preference. With this in view, we offer to the forthcoming conventions and to the people the name of a man for the Presidency of the United States whose life, in public and in private, represents those distinguished virtues which adorned the days and the deeds of the earlier time of this Republic; a return to which virtues is requisite for the prosperity and contentment of the people and the perpetuity and commanding example of free institutions. That name is Henry M. Teller—a man of the people and for the people. He is of no section. His experience and service, his devotion to the common justice and the common sense of his fellow-citizens has been as wide as the country. We believe that the people of the United States have him in their hearts as he has had their interests in his purpose through all the work of an exalted life.

It is not merely as the exponent of monetary reform that we present this man to the people. It is true that he has waged a mighty war for the restoration of the money of the Constitution, and his name has been identified as that of no other living man with this great cause. But had his services been less demanded and less noticed in this direction, the people would still have recognized in his other labors a statesman of the purest type. His only poverty has been that of purse; in all things else—in the generosities of man to man, in kindliness of deeds for his fellows, and in the study and the doings of a mighty career, he has been one of the most opulent American citizens of the age.

In submitting this name to the people we remind them that just a generation ago from the heart of the boundless West and touched by the finger of God there arose an emancipator who was powerful in the work of human deliverance. By his wisdom and courage, Providentially directed, millions were set free and the work of human deliverance. By his wisdom and courage, Providentially directed, millions were set free and the work of human deliverance. If others shall see this opportunity as we see it, if our fellow-citizens shall see this duty as we see it that sublime history may be repeated, and another man—clothed in the misesty shall see this duty as we see it that sublime history may be repeated, and another man—clothed in the misesty shall see this duty as we see it lifed to power where, by his wisdom and courage, Providentially directed, of devotion to the race—will be lifted to power where, by his wisdom and courage, Providentially directed, of devotion to the race—will be lifted to power where, by his wisdom and courage, Providentially directed, of devotion to the race—will be lifte

"No man can support the Republican ticket unless he is ready to place the control of our financial system in the hands of Great Britain. To say that we must have the gold standard until the leading nations of the world consent to bimetallism is equivalent to saying that we must allow England to legislate for us on this subject. Unless I misjudge the patriotism of the American people, they will enter an almost unanimous protest against such a policy.

The Eastern delegates are boasting of the way in which they compelled the West to accept an Eastern money plank, but when the election is over they will find that they have carried their domination too far. The Eastern definition of a business man includes only those who exchange wealth. It does not include those who actually produce wealth. Gov. Smith yesterday sent the following letter to Senator Teller: ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 18, 1896.-Hon. H. M. I am now convinced, however, that such will not be the case. Taking this conclusion into consideration and the methods by which the McKinleyites have gained their majority in the convention, I will not support Mr. McKinley for President of the United States if nominated.

I desire to return home, and, if possible, organize a free silver Republican party in Alabama.

If this cannot be done, then I propose to vote with any party nominating on such a platform as herein indicated.

The Senator received the black man graciously and talked in a low tone to him for about fifteen minutes.

The conversation was earnest, and when the negro withdrew from the room and started down the hall, he shouted "Hurrah for Teller!"

Senator Teller was as courteous as ever to newspaper representatives, but refused to talk for publication. "I can't imagine anything of interest that I can now say to the press," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"I suppose the speech I made to the convention yesterday, elaborately setting forth my reasons for severing all relations with the Republican party, has been laid before the entire country by this time. I summed up in that speech everything could say on the subject, and I can't think of anything to add to it. Therefore, you will have to excuse me from any further expression. Senator Teller was shown the dispatch in a morning paper telling of the demonstration in approval of his bolt made by the State Guard last night at Denver at the order of Gov McIntyre, and was asked what he thought of it.

"That's not strange or unexpected," he said, smiling. "Of course, they are enthusiastic out there. Why shouldn't they be?"

In an adjoining room Congressman Hariman was entertaining an interesting group. The excited Coloradoan repeated to the Montana Congressman what he had told Senator Teller.

TOWNE OF MINNESOTA

Republican Congressman Gives His Beasons for Breaking With His Party in Silver.

A notable and recent volunteer to the silver cause is Hon-Charles A. Towne, Republican member of Congress from the Sixth Minnesota District.
Following is Mr. Towne's statement:

I that Senator Teller is the man of the hour. He is now entirely out of the Republican party.

"Yet he is a protectionist. So are the great majority of the voters of the intermountain States of the Pacific Slope. But these people are first bimetallists. They realize that this issue overshadows all others. However, with Senator Teller at the head of a ticket backed by a 18 to 1 pletform and a tariff plank like that reported by the Resolutions Committee to the Democratic National Convention in 1892, but which the convention rejected under the leadership of the free trader, Henry Watterson, everyone of these voters would rally enthusiastically to his support.

"I don't want to be understood as advocating the forcing of the tariff issue to the front. The supreme issue is bimstallism, and we must make the campaign on that line. But there are many thousands of voters who are so thoroughly indoctrinated with the principles of reasonable protection as opposed to absolute free trade that they would be more apt to follow the lead of Senator Teller than anybody else the Democrats could nominate, by reason of the fact that the Senator is so intimately identified with the tariff legislation that has been enacted during the past 20 years.

"Nobody has a higher regard for Mr. Bland than I have. I followed his lead in the currency fight in the Fifty-third Congress. I williefollow him again if necessary. But a careful study of the situation has convinced me that he could not rally those essential elements of strength which I have shown would come to Senator Teller.

"In fact, I will work with all my might for any tried and true if the life of the silver."

I have shown would come to Senator Teller.

"In fact, I will work with all my might for any tried and true 16 to 1 free silver man that the Democrats may hominate. There is no other course left open to me. But if they should name some eleventh hour convert I must admit that I could not go into the fight with the same heart as if they had given us Teller or Bland.

"But whatever happens there is not the least danger of McKinley getting the electoral vote of Montana. I am willing to bet $500 to $50 that he won't get over 10,000 of the $50,000 votes of Montana."

"Will Senators Carter and Mantle support McKinley?" Mr. Hartman was asked.
"No; they will not," he replied. "They both told me yesterday that they didn't walk out of the convention with us simply because they did not want to make an exhibition of themselves to be jeered at. But they are with us, because ning-tenths of the people of Montana are with us."

Senator Teller will probably remain in he city until Monday. Then he will go 60 linois to spend a week or ten days with smother, who is $8 years old, before remaining to Colorado to receive the plaudits of his grateful constituents.

science of each individual. Every man acted for himself and on his own convictions of duty.

"Senator Teller deprecates the mention of his name in connection with a Presidential nomination. He regrets it all the more keenly at this jucture because in withdrawing from the convention he simply followed the honest convictions of a lifetime.

"He believes that the country is in great peril, and that the condition of the people from the continuance of the single gold standard is going to produce a schaotic condition of affairs that can be averted, and sickens the heart of any patriot who sees no effort to avert it, but rather to count it. It was no selfish motive that prompted him to part company with the political friends of his lifetime; he has no political ambition to gratify, and he has passed the age of aspiration to add more honors to those he has earned.

"The Senator, and, in fact, every member of our delegation has received telegrams from every city, town and hamlet in Colorado fully indorsing our course. The action of Gov. McIntyre in firing salute guns has no further significance than it is responsive to the sentiment of the whole people of the State. We have no misgivings as to our action and the universal approvait that will greet us on our return home. McKintey will not carry a State west of the Mississippi River, and I doubt whether he will get an electoral vote west of the Ohio River."

The silver men continued in conference to day and report that they have the signatures of twenty-six delegates to their declaration of independence which sets forth their principles and recommendations that all parties and organizations opposed to the gold standard unite in supporting Senator Teller for President.

A strong effort is being made to get delegates who did not withdraw from the convention to sign this appeal to the people. There has been a conference with the bimetallic league to get them to indores Taller and have such a strong fusion against the gold standard as to induce the Democratic National Committee relative to their actions.

The silver voters have conferred with members of the Democratic National Committee relative to their actions.

They have no assurances from the Democratic managers, but have been invited to have representatives to the convention as their address to-day because they had not had an opportunity to get the signatures of all wanting to join in the movement. But as most of the delegates have left, and as the result will be further conferences, it was finally given out with the signatures of twenty-six delegates. Only twenty-tire walked out of the convention. The silver conferences claim they have not more than half the signatures that are promised.

"The cannon speaks louder than words and the country can draw the conclusion."
"The firing of the cannon meant war,"

The Colorado delegates were assembled at their headquarters Friday morning to have a picture made. They were feeling good, and the telegrams announcing the rejoicing in Colorado over their action made them feel better.

"Did you go to—, the place recommended to you when you left the convention?" inquired Dr. J. C. Rockefeller of A. M. Stevenson of Denver, who is known among his brother delegates as Adonis.

They called each other bolters, and then laughed facetiously. They jested about their new home—meaning the Democratic party—and enjoyed themselves hugely.

One delegate offered to trade his badge to the Post-Dispatch man for a Bland button.

A Tremendous Reception Being Prepared for relier.

DENVER, Colo, June 19.—In anticipation of the bolt of the silver forces under the lead of Senator Teller a battery of artillery was taken to the State House grounds year terday. When the news was received that he silver man was speaking there was intense excitement and the streets were considered with people watching the bulletin boards.

Then came the message that after forty years of service Teller, followed by his friends, was walking out of the conventition hall, and before the bolters had reached the street in St. Louis fire leaped from the throats of the cannon and a national salute was fired.

Following is Mr. Towne's statement:

"I shall say only a few words at this time. After returning home I shall plainly and at more length set forth in print my reason for refusing to act during this campaign with the Republican party; a conclusion to which self-interest could not lead me, which I have reached in obedience to a solemn injunction of duty, and which, I announce with pain.

"In brief, the reason is this: The party has confessedly reversed its position on one of the fundamental articles of its faith. From bimetallism it has gone over to monometallism. It is not a case of changing the more method of reaching an end; it is a complete abandonment of the end itself.

"The party has heretofore held to the doctrine of two basic money metals. It has now declared for one only. Its old faith was for gold and silver. The new rests on gold alone. When a party changes its fundamental principles no member of it is bound to follow it, no honest man can follow it, unless his judgment and conscience approve the change. Now my judgment and conscience do not approve this abandonment of our time-honored position on this great question. To me the single gold standard is just as great an evil as it was twenty-four hours ago, when the platform of 1822 was in effect.

"To me an appreciating money measure is no more lovely now than when the honest opinion of the Republican party became pledged to it. "Belleving that counsel was not taken of the great body of the party in developing this novel and revelutionary indorsement of the English single gold standard as the party countered that the proceeding is not in the interest of the American people, but subversive of every principle by which the affairs of a great producing and debtor nation should be governed; and feeling that profound industrial, social and moral considerations, affecting not our country only, but the very perpetuity of self-government itself, necessitate the uncompromising hostility of every partic

NEW YORK, June 18.—The condition of young Cornelius Vanderbilt's health was not bulletined resterday at the family home. The only information given out on the subject during the day came from R. T. Wilson, who sent word in response to inquiries at his house last night, that the young man's condition was "the same as yesterday." Yesterday's bulletin at the Wilson house was that Mr. Vanderbilt was seriously ill. The elder Vanderbilt is said to have arged his son's youth and inexperience as the principal reason for his opposition to the marriage, and to have said that the alisance would not be distasteful to him if his son a little later in life still heid the same opinion. If, however, Cornelius persisted in disregarding his wishes he would disinherit him. From this point suggestion of a compromise naturally developed, and it was eventually agreed that the wedding should be delayed for a year, After that period of reflection, if young vanderbilt and Miss Wilson desired to marry they might do so with the full sanction of Mr. Vanderbilt.

Aside from the correspondence, there has not been any communication between the Vanderbilt and Wilson families since the trouble began. None of the Wilsons have called at the Vanderbilt house since the announcement of the young man's illness.

SHINGTON, June 18.—Michael Doran, esota's member of the Democratic Na-l Committee, is here and has received following telegram from ex-Secretary nay:

THE DEMOCRATS INSTRUCT FOR HIM FOR PRESIDENT.

BY A VOTE OF 420 TO 327.

The Action Was Then Made Unani mous and the Delegation Instructed to Vote as a Unit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 19.—The Democratic State Convention last night indersed Richard P. Bland of Missouri for President by a vote of 420 against 327. This action meets with general approval here, the political as well as the commercial center of the State. It was a bardfought battle and the people, triumphed. The politicians were opposed, but they saw that the yeomanry of the country was in earnest and well did they retreat.

Nothing short of an unqualified indersement for Bland by the convention would satisfy the Democracy of Arkanias. Those opposed to instructing the delegation to Chicago soon discovered this fact, and after numerous futile efforts to carry their point they gave up the fight. Several minutes before the final roll call was ordered it was clearly seen that the Bland forces were masters of the situation.

To cap the climax Judge E. E. Bryant of Fort Shaith, with the eloquence of Demosthenes, entered the arena and threw the gage of battle. His words acted like magic. The convention went wild at his every utterange. He is a Bland man. He said in all emergencies God raises up an incarnation of free silver at 16 to 1. The Democratic party wanted no new donvert for a leader. He believed the true policy of this convention would be to instruct for Richard P. Bland. The people demanded an indorsement of Bland.

From this time on until the final result was announced the delegates made the night hideous with shouts and yells.

Cries of "Turn the people loose and let them yote for Bland," were beard throughtout the hall, while scores of delegates gesticulated wildly, attempting to get a hearing.

The announcement of the vote was a signal for an outburst of wild enthusiasm. Several Bland shouters seised the framed portrait of Bland and walked up and down the atsles, then laid it upon the Chairman's table in an upright position.

Meanwhile the band played "Dixie" and the excited delegates shouted themselves hoarse. Such a scene was probably never witnessed before in an Arkansas political convention. There were enthusiastic cries for Judge E. E. Bryant of Fort Smith, who was the here of the hour, by reason of his magnificent speech in favor of instructing for Bland. Judge Bryant again spoke and congratulated the convention.

Mr. Mansfield moved that the indorsement of Bland be made unanimous, but objection was made. The motion was put, however, and carried.

DENVER, Colo., June 19.—The Times (Ind. Rep.) says editorially to-day:

The ticket nominated by the National Republican Convention at St. Louis yesterday will prove a strong one in the manufacturing sections of the East and in all localities where the financial question is not understood. It is, however, essentially the rich man's ticket, It will nowhere take a strong hold upon the masses of the people. If elected next November, it must be through the power of money at the polis. The action of the convention in adopting the financial plank of the platform was weak, unpatriotic and impolitic. It will give the Democratic party the opportunity of a century to ally itself with the interests of the whole people, while the Republican party must stand as the protector of the small class of rich men in the money-lending and importing branches of business.

The meaningless statement in the platform that the Republican party favors bimetallism under an international agreement will deceive no one. Dragging this section into the platform was cowardly and insincere.

COLDLY RECEIVED.

New York Couldn't Get Up a Cheer for McKinley.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, June 19.—Practically no en-thusiasm was evoked in this city by the anthusiasm was evoked in this city by the announcement of the nomination of McKinley and Hobert. It was just 8 minute or two before 5:30 o'clock last evening, local time, that the news of McKinley's nomination was pasted on the newspaper bulletins in Printing-house Square. At that time Park Row is always congested, and a feeble cheer was raised when the success of the Ohio man was announced. Ten college undergraduates would have made ten times as much noise over a play in a foot ball game. One bulletin man was disappointed at the lack of enthusiasm, and chalked up the statement that the convention was cheering itself hoarse. He added this request: "Now, all cheer," and the crowd responded with a laugh. A lurid portrait of the candidate, hoisted by the Tribune, was equally impotent to produce a cheer.

The news had been discounted too long to disturb anybody's emotional centers. Never have there been fewer Republicans and men of note in the corridors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel on such an occasion than last night.

FOREIGN OPINION.

Various Views Expressed by European Newspapers.

London Daily Graphic: Mr. McKinley will have his hands full if he conscientiously tries to realize at the White House the platform adopted by his supporters at St./
Louis. It is a very large platform, and worthily sustains the loquacious traditions of American electoral politics. The emphatic pronouncement in favor of a gold standard, side by side with the solemn profession of an ultra protectionist faith, is, at any rate, proof that economic heresy is not hidebound against the more obvious truths of the orthodox schools. The bonanza kings have, however, some reason to grumble at their exclusion from the scheme which proposes that the country shall be plundered in order to bolster up many native products not a whit more respectable than silver. The foreign policy of Republicans is, of course, an advanced rorm of Monroeism cross, fertilized by lingoism. It asks for everything for the Western Hensisphere, except a separate existence in the solar system, and it seems to be only deterred from demanding that by a desire to interfere occasionally in affairs in the other half of the world. This sort of thing is, however, getting rather stale now, and it is about time the bosses invented something, if not more practical, at any rate more in proportion to the restricted length of the world. This sort of thing is,

The failure of these to agree upon a candidate gave the Democratic States; which will send him no electoral votes, an opportunity to force, him upon them. The most eloquent significance of the situation is that his candidacy will fail to arouse that healthy enthusiasm in the Republican States which would have resulted had they agreed upon and named a candidate of their own. he was no candidate and would be none. Neither is he. He did not state that he would not accept the nomination, although asked repeatedly whether he would or not. Consequently he has nothing to "take back." He will be nominated, doubtless by acclamation, will accept and make the hottest and most persistent campaign of a personal nature the State ever dreamed of witnessing. He is prepared to do this; is stronger and healthier now than at any other time in his life, and feels he oan give Candidate Tanner all the trouble he may desire. At least he looks it.

sire. At least he looks it.

At the coming convention three things will be done. Altgeld will be nominated for Governor; free silver will be indorsed, and no candidate will be named for the United States Senate. These things have been partially agreed by the entire organization, and entirely so by the leaders. The mistake of four years ago in nominating Franklin Mac-Veagh is now plainly seen, and will not be duplicated again this year. The leaders claim they will be handicapped by a candidate for the Senate; the Republicans have named no candidate, and they should not do so. Free silver has now over 900 delegates who are either directly instructed for it or who favor and will vote for it. Every free silver man 4s for Altgeld for Governor. Hence, the two are inseparable and will be indured by the coming convention hands down.

for the coming Democratic State Convention to be held at Peoria next Tuesday. Gov. Altgeld and Chairman Hinrichsen have labored assiduously here, in their official offices, during the past three days, and have held several close conversations behind closed doors. Their nature was one of general "rounding up" of the work done and to be done. Both leaders of the free silver element are in fine fettle and have no cause to complain for what the future Pow seems to house in store that the future Illinois delegation to the National Convention will last but two days. The convention will last but two days. The convention will last but two days. The temporary organization will be effected Tuesday and the rest of the work finished by Wednesday evening. The State tickst Auditor, Attorney-General and Secretary depend largely upon one another. Location will have much to do with filling all three Government.

PLATFORM AND PRICES.

Lower and lower must prices go as higher and higher goes the price of gold. The day which saw a gold standard platm adopted at St. Louis saw a decline in the prices of stocks and farm products aff along the line.

After the announcement and adoption of the platform, stocks broke from 1 to 25 points a share, wheat declined a cent and a half per bushel, and corn and oats ped in prices. All the markets agged with the exception of gold, for the same wires which brought reports of fall-ing prices in everything else brought news of advance in discount rates and

Wheat had the hardest fall, but everything else in the grain market went along Wheat below 60 cents, corn nea-25 cents and oats below 18 cents mark the inauguration of "an era of confidence."

The St. Louis Republic, always apologist for the gold interest says in a spe-cial dispatch from New York: "In the early afternoon the vote on the St. Louis platform which showed the strength of the silver men to be no larger than had been expected, caused a recovery." But no recovery is visible in the prices of the les of American industry, and can be or will be under the gold who writes for "Engineering News" is that a "a large percentage of the de-struction was caused by the "explosion" of parts of buildings, due to the sudden relief of atmospheric pressure on the outside."

CIENCE ON THE CYCLONE.

During a cyclone the atmospheric pressure, as shown by the barometer, varies greatly and with terrible suddenness. Of course the pressure inside buildings does not follow the outside variation as fast as is compatible with safety, unless the building contains many open windows. The result is the same as when a lecturer on physics places a small, sealed bottle under the air pump receiver and, by exhausting the air from receiver and, by exhausting the air from around the bottle causes it to burst from the pressure of the expanding and confined air.

At first glance it would appear that the shutting of windows on the approach of a cyclone is a mistake, but there are other forces to guard against. It is as dangerous to leave them open as to close them, as the direct force of the wind and the menace of flying objects is as dangerous as the variation of pressure. .

Wide and strong chimneys and air vents in the roof are an undoubted precaution pointed out by this investiga-tion. The air inside buildings must be allowed to escape when the pressure va-

THE CONVENTION.

The Republican National Convention of 1896 has done its work and adjourned. The work had been carefully prepared for it in advance, and in performing it the members of the convention acted like the automata they were. The convention itself was the product of a machine, and it worked like a machine. This accounts for the apathy and the lack of enthusiasm. .It is doubtful if the proceedings of any other national gathering ever assembled were so drearly dull, so totally acking in spontaneity and interest.

Two controlling forces dominated the convention and dictated the platform and the candidates. One of these-the manufacturing interests of the country, which have been built up to enormous wealth by discriminating tariff duties levied for their benefit-planned and carried to overwhelming success the campaign for the nomination of McKinley. This campaign was begun two years ago, was carried on as systematically as any other ousiness enterprise in which vast profits are involved, and reached the result which money, combined with organized effort, nearly always achieves.

This was the work of Hanna, acting for and using the money of the American Protective Tariff League and the vast manufacturing interests behind it. Events have made it perfectly plain that when this campaign was planned and until its very latest stages it was the intention to run McKinley on his tariff record, and to make the tariff the leading issue in the campaign. The money question was to be straddled as it was at Minneapolis and a "revival of prosperity" through levying higher taxes was to be the battle

When the strictly moneyed interests of the East, concentrated in Wall Street, saw that Hanna's campaign would win, they determined to force an equal division of the fruits of victory. They had never before dared to ask any political party in the United States to openly indorse the single gold standard. They perceived that the one weak spot in McKinley's position was his attempt to straddle the money question. They determined to force Hanna's hand and to compel McKinley to stand on a platform declaring un-single gold standard. In mustering the strength to accomplish other candidates, all the bosses who were jealous of Hanna, and rasped by his upstart arrogance, and all the purchasable element, which is always numerous in a Republican National Convention. In redefeat and failure. They prefer the sisting this scheme to handicap his candidate, Hanna was caught at a great disadvantage. If he fought the new gold combine with too much tenacity, he ran the rick of a break from his candidate out, body and soul, to the Shylocks of the and a defeat of all his carefully matured plans. After considering the matter for several days, he decided that it was better to risk the election rather than the nomination of his candidate. He yielded the "divvy" demanded, and McKinley stands upon a platform the chief plank of which was not regarded as a possibility six months ago. So the result of the convention's work is a Western candidate, presented to the people on a strictly Eastern platform.

There is no reason to doubt that both Hanna and the combine that forced the platform knew perfectly well that the declaration for gold monometallism would imperil McKinley's election. Some of those in the combine advocated it for this very reason. They want to see Mo-Kinley defeated, and their sole purpose was to handicap him in his race. Hanns and those who have "wealth beyond the dreams of avarice" at stake in his election calculate that they can buy enough electoral votes to insure the success their candidate. Nothing is more certain than that this is to be a money campaign in both senses of the word. McKinley's nomination was bought. His election is to be bought The question at issue is, Can the American people be bought? If they can Mc-Kinley will win on his gold platform. If they cannot, he and it will go down in crushing defeat.

A-FREAK PLATFORM.

It is not McKinley, but the ghost of Blaine, that dominates the tariff and reiprocity planks in the Republican platform. The inspiration of the whole Mc-Kinley campaign cozes out and is lost between these two sections.

"We are not pledged to any particular schedules," say the Republicans. Why, then, was McKinley nonfinated? He stands for nothing but the McKinley bill, and not, like Reed or Allison, for great ts in many lines. It was 1890, that the Repub ter on his party.

The tariff plank is almost a r of McKinleyism. The indorses ciprocity is distinctly so. When Blaine was Secretary of State, and McKinley Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the Secretary urged and the com-mittee Chairman resisted the policy of eciprocity. The country has not forgotten the dramatic scene when Blaine, dashing his hat against the wall of the committee room, declared that the Mo-Kinley law, without reciprocity, would close every market to American products. There is but one clear promise in the St. Louis platform. It pledges the Republican party, unequivocally, to the single

A POPULAR SONG.

Imperial St. Louis.

From the Boonville (Mo.) Democrat.

The city of St. Louis has a remarka and in some respects a phenomenal history, and in all respects one of which its friends of this and former generations are justly proud. Founded in 1784 by Laclede as a trading boat, it has gradually, slowly and surely gone on conquering and to conquer.

Fortunately for its permanent prosperity it has never experienced a "boom." The disastrous hand of spasmodic growth was never laid upon it. It was never in any respect or in regard to any interest a city of fits and starts, crazes or fads. It was never self-deceiving or coveted either pop-ulation or wealth by false pretenses.

Its trade and commerce and constantly increasing business along all the lines of modern civilization are on foundations as enduring as the limestone hills on which the city is built. Neither financial panics nor depressions of trade, nor moving in-cidents by flood or fire or tornado can repress or materially retard its inherent vitality or stop its onward march to the distinction of being the greatest interior city of the continent.

Better Sprinkling Wanted.

To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

The many residents on Lafayette avenue would like to have explained why, after having their homes deselated by the fury of the storm, they must now be further afficted by clouds and columns of dust that surge and eddy along that once beautiful thoroughfare with every gust of wind.

The sprinkling cart has become such a rarity as almost to be a curiosity, and low mutterings of deep discontent in this and other sections at the insufficient sprinkling are heard at all times.

There has been a great deal said about thicker walls since the storm. There was an ordinance passed and went into effect April 7, 1881, but, on account of the hardship on poor people that built, later I think it was repealed.

A young lady has formed a most awkward and ungraceful way of walking, so much so that people look around at her in the street, greatly to her annoyance.

Is there any place in the city to go where this could be corrected? Or what would you advise in the matter?

JOSEPH P. CORNELIUS SHOOTS AND KILLS CHARLES KRAUSS.

THE WOMAN SAYS HE HAD TO.

Krauss Was Jealous, and, Finding Cornelius With Rosie Williams, Rushed at Him With a Knife.

The truest words Charles Krauss ever poke were his last ones. "You are the man that's going to kill me," he said threateningly to Joseph P. Cornelius, and before he could speak again a pistol shot rang out and Krauss went ering down the street with a bullet breast. He fell dead within a half

The tragedy occurred at 11:30 Thursday night in front of the house at 1023 North Tenth street. Krauss was jealous of the favors shown Cornelius by Rosie Williams, a young woman who lives at that

He found his rival there just before midnight and they quarreled. Krauss drew a knife and Cornelius shot him.

Cornelius is only 22 years old, and has always borne a good reputation.

He lives with his mother at 219 Tyler street. She is the widow of Tom Cornelius, who about fifteen years ago was Prosecuting Attorney of the Court of Criminal Correction. He has been dead six years. He left his widow a comfortable little income from real estate investments. Young Cornelius managed his mother's affairs, Krauss had a bad reputation.

In the parlor of the house there is a piano, and while Rosis played a soft lullaby Krauss told her his troubles.

According to Rosie, he told her that he was going to kill her lover if she did not give him up. She tried to dissuade him and calm him, but he would not listen to her and went away vowing vengeance.

A few minutes after the crowd's departure Cornelius came in. Rosie informed him of Krauss' threats, but he paid little heed to her. As the night was hot, the two went out and sat together on the sittle low stoop in front of the house.

By and by they saw a crowd coming up Tenth street from the south. It was Krauss' party. The couple sat still on the steps.

Weber Answers His Wife.

George L. Weber has answered Bertha Weber's suit for maintenance. Mrs. Weber's bili recites that the couple were married in Monroe County, Illinois, in March, 1872, and lived together until September, 1884, when he left her. She allegos that since last September he has done nothing toward supporting her. She says he is worth 115,000 and has an income of 1400 a month, and she thinks he ought to produce at lease 176 a month for her benefit.

Weber's answer admits the marriage, but deales the rest of the allegations. He lives at 181 Wainut street. He is a cigar manufacturer.

Society Too Onerous.

At the last meeting of the Ladies' Self-Culture Society, at Jefferson Club Hall, Capt. Joseph Brown tendered his resignation as President. Mrs. Jurgens was elected his successer.

Capt. Brown stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that his resignation was due to the fact that the business of the City Auditor's office did not leave him time for the duties of the society.

The society was organized about one year ago by fifty-five former members of the Woman's Benevolent Ald Society, because of dissatisfaction over the election of a President.

The big convention's over—there's a mighty joy in that.
There never was a gathering that fell so dull and flat.
The "Injuns" down in Cronin's ward could beat it if they tried:
They never held a meeting yet where things were cut and dried.

But nothing happened such as that—the scene was quite too tame,
The days kept winding in and out, but all were just the same;

HENLEY ON THE THAMES, June 19.—
The Yale crew were out at 11 o'clock this morning and the Trinity Hall men took the water a little later. Both pulled a twenty-four-to-the-minute stroke. Yale rowed short stretches to Temple Island and back and then went above the bridge. The work done by the Americans was not equal to that of yesterday. The catch and finish were poor. They were coached on the catch by Bob Cook, who to-day tried an electric launch, but soon decided that she was too slow for the work required of her.

The Trinity Hall crew are steadying down and rowed three stretches. They were back at their boathouse at 1 o'clock. The English critics think that with a length-ened stroke the Yale men stand some chance of winning.

Senator Payne of Wisconsin nominated Marcus A. Hanna for permanent chairman of the committee and the McKinley machine boss was unanimously elected by a rising vote. He took the chair, smiled blandly and the committee went into executive session.

One of the first things done was to pass a prefaced resolution, offered by Senator Thurston, giving Chairman Hanna full sway. It reads as follows:

"Resolved, That the chairman of this committee is hereby authorized and empowered, after consultation with candidates for President and Vice-President, to appoint a committee of nine, who may or may not be members of this committee, and that the chairman of this committee, and that the chairman of the Executive Committee."

SOLON MURPHY IN CLOVER. He Sees an Opportunity to Vent His Spleen on a Policeman. Judge Murphy sot in one of his celebrated upper cuts on the Police Department Friday. "You had no right to arrest these innocent young men" he said, addressing Patrolman "Connie" Hough, "without a warrant, unless you saw them in the act of committing a crime. "It is you that should be in the prisoner's box on this occasion- not these young men. The defendants are discharged." Tom Tracey and Mike Ryan wers on trial for petit larceny. On June 12, while Ira'M. Leake, a driver for the Walnwright brewery, was delivering goods at Joe Sanford's saloon, 2301 Market street, Tracey and Ryan are alleged to have seized a keg of beer and started to run away with it, but they were discovered and they dropped it. Leake returned to the cellar, and he alleges that when he again emerged the men had again seized the keg and were sprinting down the street. Leake followed them and they beat him severely. Both were arrested. About two weeks ago Tracey was fined 30 in the Police Court for assaulting a woman.

HE STOOD THE STRAIN WELL AND IS PROUD OF HIMSELF.

When Hanna had finished his tollet he said he would see a Post-Dispatch reporter.

The Captain General of the McKinley forces, the new factor is National politics and the man who almost single handed grappled in a mighty combat with the veterans who have for years made and unmade Presidents, looked as fresh and serene as if he had never heard of a great-convention, and had spent the past ten eventful days at his palatial home. He could not have been more chipper.

He looked the victor and every utterance and motion showed that he was swelling with pride.

"I am not feeling so faded as I thought I would after the struggle was over," said Mr. Hanna, "But, oh my, how glad I am it is over. It has been a powerful and trying strain, I tell you."

Then, mindful of his strength, not only physical, but the power he had wielded also, he continued: "It takes a strong man to undergo what I have passed through. But my appetite has not failed me, and I am so hungry. Come, I must go to breakfast and will talk with you on the way."

As the new boss emerged from his room there was a crowd ready to stop him, and many insisted on shaking his hand. He would not stop, however, until he reached the dining room door, when he paused to answer a parting question from the Post-Dispatch reporter.

"What do I think of the result?" said he, repeating the question. "Why it is simply glorious. It is no more, however, than we came here to attain."

"Did you at any time have fear of being out-generaled by the combine?"

"Not the least. The main point was-to avoid as much friction as possible.

"McKinley's nomination was assured months ago. It was not a question as to the schemes to encompass his defeat, for weeks ago they had all been brushed aside, but the question was to have the nomination pass off smoothly and to agree on a platform that would not only be to his liking, but also of that of the great mass of the Republican party. This was a matter of consultation and detail—all of which was amicably arranged."

John Connolly, while under the influence of liquor, was picked up from the sidewalk at Third and Valentine streets at 10:20 o'clock last night bleeding from a scalp wound and one in the left side, which he says were inflicted by two men who stopped him and tried to rob him.

He says one of them stuck a knife into his side while the other one struck him on the head with a barrel of a revolver.

He was so drunk he fell and the highwaymen ran away. A policeman found Connelly and sent him to the City Hospital, where Dr. Sutter said his wounds were not dangerous.

Which was amicably arranged.

"How do you like the game of politics and the crossing of swords with the big leaders that opposed you?"

"Tam a business man, not a politician, but the little part I have taken in politics has been on business lines, and I proceed just as I would in making a success of a big business institution.

"That is all I care to say as to the part I have taken in this struggle. I do not wish to give myself all the credit. There are others who have done herculean work in co-operation with me."

"Do you think it secretain that the clarcago convention will declare for free sliver?"

"Yes; and I am sure they will declare for it in terms of 16 to 1."

"Are you doing anything to oppose the sweep of the sliver wave?"

"Yes, of course. We began too late, or we would have knocked it clear out. But as it is now we are on the outside, and must do our fighting outside."

Further than this Mr. Lehman would not talk, but from his conversation it was easy to learn his intentions, which it is eminently fair to suppose are identical with the intentions of the dinner party.

Briefly stated, their plan seems to be this: Go to Chicago in as big numbers as possible and use their influence there against the silver tide. Threaten to bolt, and if they do not get what they want, make as big a demonstration as possible.

Details of the plan were probably not perfected, as the dinner part was broken up before it had thoroughly got together by the arrival of the hour for the departure of Mr. Harrity's train. Mr. Maffitt, according to his own statement, had to do all the talking he did and receive all the instruction he got while on the way from the St. Louis Club to the Union Station.

M'KINLEY'S ANCESTRY.

and polished gentleman or the old school. He was a teacher for many years and was familiar with several languages. In religion he was a strict Presbyterian, and in politics a Democrat of the Jeffersonian school, as were also the McKinleys of Crawford County in that early day, except James, who was a Whig. He also fought in the Revolutionary war, and during the closing years of his life drew a pension for wounds received in the service.

When James McKinley, grandfather of Maj. McKinley, located at Chatfield, he was accompanied by his children, Hannah, Martha, Ellen Benjamin, and his son, John, joined him about two years later, while the older children, including William, father of the Governor, remained in Columbiana County. In 184 James sold Ms. Chatfield farm and moved to Lykens township, about a mile and a quarter west of Lykena.

They subsequently removed to South Bend, Ind. The country about South Bend then was very swampy, new and full of malaria. The old folks both were taken with malaria shortly after arriving and both died on the same day in 1847, the fortieth anniversary of their marriage, three hours apart, and were buried in the same grave, which is marked by a handsome monument put up by their son, William McKinley, Sr.

JAMES LUDWIG BEATEN ALMOST TO DEATH.

FIVE MEN ATTACKED HIM.

His Senseless Body Was Found Near Sewer Opening Two Hours After the Assault.

The senseless and bleeding body of James Ludwig was found near the sewer opening at the corner of Second and Destranan streets at 11:30 o'clock Thursday night by a 3-year-old boy. The lad stumbled over it in the dark on his way to a neighboring saloon to get a can of heer. aloon to get a can of beer.

Patrolman Morris was notified, and he called a patrol wagon, and Ludwig was taken to the North Branch Dispensary, where Dr. Randall by artificial means brought the injured man to his senses. He then said that he had been assaulted by five men, who attempted to assassinate him as he walked along the dark street. It he was receiving and trepidation at the anticipated return home of his father, who is a traveling man.

He had a hard time of it for a while after his imitation of a black bass. The chances are that if he remembers how painful an instrument a fish hook is he will never again torment little fishes in the brook. Jefferson went fishing with boys of the neighborhood Thursday without his mother's permission, and he didn't catch any fish. On the way home in the afternoon he tarried with the other boys to admire a pop corn stand at King's highway and Lindell boulevard. That is where he got the fish hook in his vitals.

Jefferson in telling how it happened said:

"Johnny Jeuger had the fish hook, and I asked him for it. He gave it to me and I stuck it in my mouth. Then I started to say something real quick and it went down my throat. I couldn't say anything but 'hem, Jem.' Then the boys took me over to Dr. Witherspoon's office on washington avenue. I couldn't say a word, and it hurt awful. The doctor stuck his finger down my throat as far as he could, but he couldn't get out the hook. He got it leose and shoved it, and then I swallered it. It's in my stomach now. A policeman took me home, and I laid down on the floor and went to sleep."

Jefferson is now being fed boiled potates exclusively with a view to incasing the fish hook in his stomach with the vegetable, thus sheathing the point of it, Jefferson expressed himself Friday as growing tired of the diet.

The policeman brought a note to Jefferson's mother from Dr. Witherspoon, instracting her to call a doctor as soon as the hook began to hurt again.

KENNETT RAILROAD FIGHT

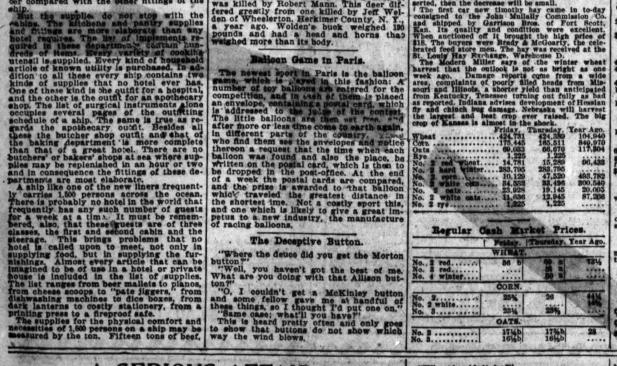

ceiver on the St. Louis, Kennett and Southern Railway.

Judge Priest represented the petitioner, A. J. Kerfoot, on whose application the receiver was appointed.

There was some lively sparring between Gen. Noble and Judge Priest for position, and finally Judge Adams ruled that the "motion to vacate" had the attack, and Gen. Noble then read the motion.

There were some 20 grounds on which the defense asked the revocation of the receivership order. One was that Kerfoet represented only a very small amount of stack, while the majority of the stockholders were satisfied with Houck's management of the road and did not want any change. Another was that on the very day on which this receivership was ordered the State Suprame Court had issued an order prohibiting Fordyce from acting as receiver under an order of the Dunkin Court.

Prom the St. James Gazette.

It is always an inscrutable mystery to everybody why other people quarrell For our own little arguments there is always, of course, sood, sound and sufficient reason; for the disputs of other folk the excuse appears ever absurdly inadequate. Why, for instance, young Greig and Miss Elsie Norman, both returning from India on the Bengal, should break off with amazing suddenness their engagement just as the Bengal was nearing the Bay of Biscay it was not easy to see.

But they did.

"And I suppose," said young Greig, with a face that looked less bronze than usual, "that nothing I can say will alter your decision? Your mind is quite made up?

"It always is," declared Miss Norman, the best diploy to the brans rail and looked away at the spot in the distance which represented Spain. It is best when quarreling with anyone you have eared for not to look at their eyes.

AGTON'S GOOD FORTUNE.

ANNOUNCED BY CHANCELLOR CHAPLIN AT COMMENCEMENT.

OPTION ON A SITE CLOSED.

Sixty-Four Young Ladies and Men Receive Degrees, University Honors and Prizes.

Toward the close of the Washington University commencement exercises at Ger-mania Theater Thursday night Chancellor W. S. Chaplin made an announcement that brought out rounds of applause and satisfied a long pent up curiosity.

He adverted to the fact that two years ago the President of the Board of Trustees announced that the University had an op-tion on a large tract of land beyond Forest Park which, if acquired, would be the site of a magnificent group of college buildings.

"The money to buy it, $200,000, has been

Park which, if acquired, would be the site of a magnificent group of college buildings.

"The money to buy it, $200,000, has been raised," said the Chancellor, "and that ground is now the University"s.

This statement was roundly applauded and Mr. Chaplin went on to say:

"But do not think that the work is done. It has only begun, and there is no time to take a rest."

Mr. Chaplin then made mention of the Russell Institute Fund amounting to $130,000, which has been ordered turned over to the Washington University by the Circuit Court. This order was made on the petition of the trustees of the fund, who believed that they could not carry out the purpose of the fund's founder, which was that a school to be known as the Russell Institute be established.

Sixty-four young men and women received the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Roience, or Bachelor of Laws at the commencement exercises.

Chancellor Chaplin presided, and the exercises were opened at 8 o'clock with prayer by the Rev. Frederick L. Hosmer.

"The Functions of a University" was the subject of the first oration, delivered by Henry Herman Oberschelp, candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He was followed by Louis Lyon Brinsmade, candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Science in mechanical engineering. His subject was "Engineering and Civilisation."

Miss Sarah Elizabeth Long, candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, one of the "co-eds." of the class of '96, read an excellent essay on "Socrates as a Teacher."

The St. Louis Law School represented by 35 graduates, had slected Harry Bartow Hawes class orator. Mr. Hawes graduated with great credit. When he stepped forward upon the stage the applause that had greeted the others was renewed.

The subject of his oration was "The Lawyer in Polities." He declared that from early times the lawyer had been active in politics and had of necessity been a potent factor in the greater polyfical movements of the human species, the development of property ri

Mr. Hawes quoted the words of Edmund Burke in the House of Commons upon the American lawyer of colonial days, and passed to the part played by lawyers in the United States Government and the influence of the law upon all great American political movements. The qualifications of the lawyer for the great duties of the profession were then adverted to and the wide field of politics in which he was engaged described.

Honorable marking. the first prize, a gold medal, had been awarded by a committee of the bar to Miss Daisy Dorothy Barbee, the only lady member of the law class. Honorable mention had been accorded James Hamilton Grover. After the announcement of awards in the art school by Chancellor Chaplin benediction was pronounced by Rev. Hosmer. The full list of graduates was as follows: Bachelor of Arts-Sarah G. Branch, Mary M. Bryan, Robert Walter Bruere, Trescott Fox Chaplin, Thomas Harper Cobbs, Grace Maris Deanison, Cecella L. Hospes, Albert Briggs Lawyer, Sarah Blizabeth Long, Cyrus C. Mannebach, Edith Faulkner Miller, Henry H. Oberschelp, Fanny Eliz. Perkins, Irene Petitit, Charles Fred Pirscher, Helen May Zener.

Bachelor of Laws-Maurice L. Altheimer, Daisy Dirothy Barbee, Charles A. Burrows, George Perd. Beck, Joseph Block, Charles J. Daly, Thomas Corwin Dutro, John Michael Flynn, James H. Grover, Lee A. ### MARRIAGE CLERKS WARNED. Mrs. Knott Tells Them Not to Issue a License to Her Son. Frank Knott will not marry Matilda Brinkman if his mother can prevent him, and she is doing her best to place great bar-riers in his way.

She has written letters to the clerks of St.

Iring to elope to Belleville with Matilda Brinkman.

Mrs. Knott has another objection to her son's marriage besides his youth. It is that Matilda is six years older than he is. Mrs. Knott belleves that this disparity of ages would give Matilda an authority and an influence over Frank ill suited to the wifely promise of obedience.

Mrs. Knott says that her son became acquainted with Matilda at the People's Central Church, Eleventh and Locust streets, of which both are members. They have been lovers for three, years, he says, and in that event Frank was only 13 when he became heart sick. But Mrs. Knott says he now looks as if he were 21, so that he was probably a mature lad at 13.

Mrs. Knott says that Matilda is a servant in a West End house, and that her mistress does not allow her to keep company. This obstacle has been overcome, Mrs. Knott says, by a brother church member named Black, who let Frank and Matilda do their courting at his house.

Frank works in a factory at Eleventh street and Lucas avenue, and does not give his mother much information about his marital plans.

Anne is only if years old, but she has tasted the joys of freedom so often that, the circumscribed limits of the family fire-side have no charm for her.

Whenever she is not nailed down or penned up or constrained she takes her doll rags and files to the lukewarm embrace of a lop-sided and unsympathetic world.

She repeated her intermittent specialty Thursday, and the police have been searching for her ever since.

Her father requests that she be sent to the House of Refuge.

SYSTEMATIC ROBBERY.

Employes of the Chicago and Alton Caught Stealing.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 19.-William Gallagher, traveling auditor, and J. W. Charlton, Jr., assistant general passenger agent for the Chicago & Alton Railway, have been in the city checking up the books of the ticket office here for the purpose of ascertaining the extent the company has suffered from a systematic robbery that has been carried on by Assistant Ticket Agent Jack Council and Conductor David Thornton of the Chicago & St. Louis "Limited."

Agent Jack Council and Conductor David Thornton of the Chicago & St. Louis "Limited."

Thornton left a package with the agent at Atlanta to be sent to Council. The suspicions of the Atlanta agent were aroused and he opened the package, which proved to contain uncanceled tickets to the value of about $250. They were promptly forwarded to General Passenger Agent Charlton, who summoned Council to Chicago.

The latter falled to respond, but instead is said to have left for parts unknown, accompanied by some woman.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 19.—Mayor Todd has returned from St. Louis and rased a storm over the action of Presirased a storm over the action of President King of the Board of Aldermen in assuming charge as Mayor during Todd's absence as a delegate to the National Convention.

Convention.

The return of Mayor Todd was unexpected and as he appeared at his office King made a hasty exit. Mayor Todd rescinded every action taken by King.

He says he will make a thorough investigation. The smoldering fire in the breasts of the old-line Republicans and A. P. A. is likely to break out at any moment.

SCHOOL BOARD CRIPPLED.

Committee Work Stopped by the Imprisonment of Members.

Until the expiration of the sentence of ten days in jail imposed by the Supreme Court upon the School Board ringsters very little School Board business can be transacted. The regular meeting of the Building Committee Friday night cannot be held because three of the seven members are in jail at Jefferson City. Other committee meetings next week will have to be postponed for the same reason.

The ringsters went to jail at Jefferson City lest Tuesday. As their terms are not reduced by good behavior, as in the case of regular convicts, their friends will not see them in St. Louis until Friday of next week. Until the expiration of the sentence of

AMUSEMENTS.

The Uhrig's Cave opera company is still singing "Olivette" with success. Miss Laura Millard is fast gaining new laurels. She has a lovely figure, a sweet face, pleasing voice, and is a charming little actress. On Monday, June 2, "The Red Fez" will make its initial bow at the Cave. This opening is looked forward to with much interest, as it is by two local composers. It is to have an elaborate production. Shriners of this city will attend in a body Monday night.

A Rousing Sale of Men's Business

A Timely Offering, Which Is Bound to Make Things Hum Greater Than Ever on Our Clothing Floor.

That's the price you will find on counter after counter of our Swell Sack and Frock Coats.

MEN who want something absolutely correct in fit and fashion, and perfectly faultless in style and make, will consult their own best interests by looking through the line of Suits we now offer at $9.25. As a matter of fact they are not $9.25 Suits, but are garments worth, and intended to be sold at $14.00, $15.00 and $16.50, and investigation will prove that they not only compare favorably with the best offered by other houses at $15.00 and $16.00, but in many cases actually surpass them. They are too good to last long at this price.

Take a tip: Act quickly.

M EN who appreciate correctly made garments will be delighted with the Suits we offer at this price-$9.25. Come expecting something extraordinary and you will not be disappointed. The range of fabrics to choose from is large-including fine Cassimeres. Serges, Worsteds, Homespuns and elegant Silk Mixtures in all the newest and nobbiest effects. We know, and therefore we guarantee each and every garment to be pure wool and worsted through and through. The linings and trimmings are the same as those used by first-class merchant tailors, and the cutting, sewing and finishing bear evidence of expert workmanship. All styles, materials, patterns and sizes.
